

SEPTEMBER 2024:

BOOK OF THE MONTH IS...

Before his great 'chocolate factory', Willy Wonka was an aspiring young chocolatier who arrives in a new town to sell his sensational sweet creations. However, three local chocolate shop owners - Slugworth, Fickelgruber, and Prodnose, (also known as 'the Chocolate Cartel') all discover that Willy's chocolates are actually better than their candy-creations and see him as a threat to their business.

Using the Chief of Police to keep Willy from selling his candy, Willy and several other people are tricked into the employment of launderette owners Scrubbit and Bleacher. Whilst there, Willy joins forces with orphan Noodle and her friends to continue making and selling chocolate – but can 'the Chocolate Cartel' and their army of chocolate obsessed monks put a stop to Wonka's dreams?

BOOK OF THE MONTH IS...

This inspiring book tells the story of William Kamkwamba, a young boy from Malawi who teaches himself how to build a windmill from scrap materials, in order to bring electricity to his village. Against all odds, he overcame poverty and a lack of resources to create a sustainable solution that changed the lives of his community.

Overall, 'The Boy Who Harnessed the Wind' is an inspiring book for the new year because it illustrates the strength of the human spirit, the power of creativity, and the impact of education in transforming lives. It encourages readers to pursue their dreams and shows that even the most difficult circumstances can be overcome with ingenuity and perseverance.

About the author... William Kamkwamba

- William Kamkwamba (born August 5, 1987, in Kasungu, Malawi – South Africa), is an inventor, engineer, and author.
- As well as writing, he has used his scientific knowledge and engineering skills to bring water and electricity to local areas and his community.
- In 2008 Kamkwamba co-founded the Moving Windmills Project. The organization teaches people in the area to how to drill their own wells and installs solar panels at schools and community centers.
- His book, 'The Boy who Harnessed the Wind', was published in 2009 and was made into a Netflix film in 2019.

CAN YOU LOVE SOMEONE YOU CAN NEVER TOUCH?

Stella Grant likes to be in control – even though her ‘out-of-control’ lungs have sent her in and out of the hospital most of her life. What Stella needs to control most is her distance from anyone or anything that might pass along an infection and jeopardize the possibility of a lung transplant. Six feet apart. No exceptions. The only thing Will Newman wants to be in control of is getting out of hospital. In a week, he will turn eighteen, and then he’ll be able to discharge himself and finally go and see the world. Will’s exactly what Stella needs to stay away from. But now six feet doesn’t feel like safety. It feels like punishment. Would five feet apart really be so dangerous if it stops their hearts from breaking too?

The title of the book relates to a real issue for people living with Cystic Fibrosis. The two young people in this book both have CF, but they must remain separated although they love each other. Both as a film and a book, ‘Five Feet Apart’ has spread awareness of this condition.

MARCH 2025:

BOOK OF THE MONTH IS...

Ten-year-old Julia has followed her mum and dad to live on the remote island of Unst (off the coast of Scotland) for the summer. Her dad is there to repair a local lighthouse, and her mother is on a scientific mission to find the elusive Greenland shark. But when her mother's obsession threatens them all, Julia finds herself on an adventure with dark depths and a lighthouse full of hope...

'Julie and the Shark' is the 2023 Carnegie award nominated book by award-winning author Kiran Millwood Hargrave, and is illustrated by her husband, Tom de Freston. Hargrave is also one of this years' World Book Day 2025 authors.

World Book Day is on Thursday 6th March 2025. Your WBD vouchers will be available from form tutors and can be used to choose from a collection of books from local stores, such as 'The Wolf Trials' – which is also by Kiran Millwood Hargrave.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS: Kiran Millwood Hargrave

- As well as winning the Waterstones Children's Book Prize in 2017 for her first novel, she is also a poet and playwright who was elected as a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature in 2023.
- 'Days before (Covid) lockdown there was a fire in my studio that destroyed twelve years' worth of work. From the burnt-out husk I rescued burnt frames, bags of ash, fragments of destroyed artworks. Much of the artwork for Julia and the Shark was made using these materials, as an act of mourning, transformation and repair. It reflects the central message of the book, that even in the deepest darkness there is always the light of hope.' - Tom de Freston (illustrator - 'Julia and the Shark').

THE BOOK OF THE MONTH IS...

What the book is about:

Flamingo Boy is set during World War II, in Camargue in southern France. It tells the story of an autistic boy named Lorenzo, who is growing up on a farm in that region when the Germans invade the country and occupy France. The story begins in contemporary France though, where a teen-aged boy named Vincent, is being rehabilitated in the home of a Camargue woman, who enjoys telling the youngster stories about the war. She goes into detail how there were flamingos who fled the region, and Lorenzo, an autistic teenager, who gave her comfort and refuge when the Nazis invaded the town.

The book 'Flamingo Boy' is also known as 'The Day the World Stopped Turning'. It is a British children's novel written by Michael Morpurgo – who also wrote 'War Horse'. The author was inspired to write this book, in part, by his own grandson, who is autistic.

What is autism?

Autism describes the way some people communicate and experience the world around them. There are various characteristics and forms of behavior linked with being autistic. No two autistic people are the same.

About the Author: Michael Morpurgo

- Sir Michael Morpurgo (born: 5 October 1943) is an English book author, poet, playwright who is known best for children's novels such as War Horse (1982).
- His work is noted for its "magical storytelling", for recurring themes such as the triumph of an outsider or survival, for characters' relationships with nature.
- His early childhood was during the Second World War, during which he was a child evacuee. Before becoming a successful writer, he was originally a schoolteacher, before being inspired to become a writer.
- He is the President of BookTrust, a children's reading charity that supports World Book Day.
